MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Katherine S. Maul Buki, MD, FCCP, FAASM

Greetings Maryland Sleep Society Members!

On June 14th, Maryland Sleep Society held its annual business meeting at the historic MedChi headquarters for the first time. Members gathered for a panel discussion and question and answer session centered on hypoglossal nerve stimulator devices, and the practical experience at our state’s academic centers. Our panel included academic leaders from Johns Hopkins, University of Maryland and Walter Reed as well as some of state’s most experienced sleep technologists. It was a pleasure to gather for food, drink and discussion, and many members had excellent ideas for future programs.

We continue our work on Board composition and will be communicating in upcoming weeks to move forward with member confirmation of new Board nominees, as well as our proposed slate of officers, as we synchronize both interim and term Board memberships this fall. We continue to seek nominations for interested Sleep Technologist Candidates. Please forward suggestions and CVs to Ginger Tinsley, our Society administrator.

We have been diligently working on our newly constructed website. The new website will offer streamlined membership management and an improved conference registration experience. Please note that members will be asked to reset their passwords and update their profiles. Our new website offers the option for listing in our Member Directory and will prompt users to clearly identify which of their professional information, if any, they would like viewable by the public.

Our Annual Academic Conference will take place on Friday, October 27 and Saturday October 28. Please be sure to sign up as soon as possible to take advantage of the early bird discount and to allow us to optimize planning. We are returning to the Sheraton Baltimore North again in 2023. Our list of speakers and topics as well as links for registration and hotel information will be available on the website. Make sure to be logged in to the website with your new username and password to receive member pricing for the conference.

We are very much looking forward to gathering again this fall, to catch up with friends and colleagues, greet our new Sleep Fellows and explore the most interesting topics in sleep. Thank you once again to our sponsors who have supported us throughout these tumultuous times. Here's to promoting the benefits of healthy sleep to all!
